A new era in African Crisis Self-Management

The 5th cycle of the Reinforcement of African Peacekeeping Capacities, RECAMP 5, also known as SAWA 2006, was held within the Economic Community of Central African States (ECCAS) beginning in June 2005-November 23rd 2006

In each cycle training programs, exercises and exchange forums were held that simulated different critical developments in fictitious countries, to which member states of had to find a self-sufficient response.

Solidarity and Vision

Originally the brainchild of French military strategists, the RECAMP programs have grown into a solidarity movement among African nations and economic zones for the prevention and resolution of internal and transcontinental conflicts. The vision behind the programs is one of African nations managing their own crises with little or no foreign support or intervention by 2010. The cycles and programs are built on the four principal objectives of regional cooperation and training, generally accepted codes of practice among member states, guidelines for deployment, and support. The RECAMP 5 cycle stands out as a milestone in the evolution of the concept and represents, through its strong ties with ECCAS, an increasing willingness on the part of African nations to reinforce the role of African sub-regional organisations on issues of collective security.

Approaching Peace from a different perspective...

This fifth cycle signalled an increased commitment by other continents to a new approach to global crisis management: one consistent with the new peace architecture for the continent defined by the African Union (AU):

To this end SAWA 2006 involved a Command Field Exercise (CFX) involving the imaginary oil-rich state of Wanamel, torn apart by ethnic conflicts. All crises control attempts by the Wanamel Armed Forces failed, provoking social division and serious humanitarian suffering. The exercise was designed to acquaint staff officers of ECCAS sent from Burundi, Cameroon, the Central African Republic, Chad, Republic of the Congo, the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Equatorial Guinea, Gabon, Rwanda, Sao Tomé and Principe and Angola, with peacekeeping activities involving the implementation and enforcement of cease-fires, overseeing and assuring the protection of human rights, and the provision of security and humanitarian assistance.

Through creative crisis management

The CFX proved to be an exercise that took the human dimensions of crisis into account for the first time, providing a multi-dimensional response profile to situations that had traditionally been thought only to have had military solutions. RECAMP 5 proved the importance the development of civilian infrastructures in the rebuilding of a country; especially in areas of inland security and social stabilisation. The exercise ushered in major innovations which will help integrate current changes in African crisis management policies within the context of new trans-continental partnerships. Member states of the ECCAS were able to design a planning process from a realistic crisis scenario which resulted in the deployment of an African operational, tactical, infrastructure in which four countries took part: Ethiopia, the seat of the AU; Gabon, the seat of ECCAS; Congo which held the political / military seminar in Brazzaville, and Cameroon, which hosted the actual field exercise.

Cameroon is committed to the RECAMP 5 Vision

Cameroon's contribution, in terms of manpower and infrastructure, to the success of the exercise was enormous. Cameroon coordinated the air transportation for the Officers of the 11 subregion states with its fleet of C-130 aircrafts, undertook vast building and road infrastructure renovation programs, and ensured logistical support for the exercise by providing vehicles and fuel.

Non-member countries of ECCAS, invited by both France and ECCAS, supplied officers to train Staff during the exercise and supported ECCAS countries in setting up Command Posts used during the exercise as well as carried out humanitarian and medical services for the population in Cameroon.

Cameroonian authorities welcomed the acquisition of new peacekeeping skills by the army, marking a new training paradigm for its military forces. As part of the preparations for the RECAMP 5 CFX, the local population benefited from 15 micro-development projects carried across the country at a cost of over $5,250.000 US. Projects funded by France, the USA and other countries, included portable water supplies in seven localities, a new health center in Douala Bonadibong, a medical warehouse in Garoua, a new reception and observation center in Bepanda Douala, new classroom construction, and the distribution of much needed material and equipment. The Laquintinie Hospital in Douala also received a new incinerator and sewage system.

Joint Oversight

The Co-directors of RECAMP 5, French Major General Roger Renard and Cameroonian Brigadier General Hector Marie Tchemo, inspected the peace-keeping and civil military action training programs accompanied by His Excellency Louis Sylvain Goma, former Prime Minister of the Democratic Republic of Congo , now the Secretary General of ECCAS. The two training programs took place from November 13 to 17 at the Yaounde Combined Armed Services Military Academy (EMIA) and involved 110 military officers from all of the 11 that c ECCAS member states, including the host: Cameroon Minister Delegate at the Presidency in charge of Defence, Rémy Ze Meka.

After inspecting the program, the Secretary General of ECCAS described the

The process was also designed to test existing ECCAS and African Union infrastructures in accordance with plans drawn up during the cycle. To this end, the RECAMP 5 / SAWA 2006 project particularly focused on police operations that closely collaborated with military components of the African Standby training as a benchmark in the coordination of African continental peacekeeping capacities. Louis Sylvain Goma thanked the French and Cameroonian governments for their efforts to ensure the success of the programs, and the RECAMP 5 co-directors. ECCAS Secretary General, and training officials had a working session with heads of the delegations from the 11 participating countries.

Reality through simulation

The object of the RECAMP 5 / SAWA 2006 simulation exercise was to find effective ways of providing the Central African sub-region with an operational force capable of carrying out peacekeeping missions within the sub-region and elsewhere on the continent under the aegis of the African Union.

fort at coordinating peace keeping strategies and streamlining operational parameters between countries to help the African Union develop its own strategic infrastructures, and test the conformity of the ECCAS peace and security structures with the Central African Peace Council (COPAX), guidelines as laid out in Yaoundé, in February 1999, at a summit conference of the United Nations Standing Advisory Committee on Security Questions in Central Africa, where member states decided to create an organisation for the promotion, maintenance and consolidation of peace and security in Central Africa. Further, the exercise encouraged participation by the regional standby forces of the Central African Multinational Force (FOMAC)
